

The end of a legend

In times of old
When the earth was still cold
There lived a dragon whose fire was a mythical delight
It burnt so strong
It lit up the night
People were afraid to venture near
For stories and legends
Of the dragon they feared
One day a knight so bold
Rode out into the night so cold
To slay the dragon
That people feared
The dragon fought with all his might
But the legend was ended
On that cold dark night
